SMART Link gives pillows & blankets to seamen's dorm

Maritime satellite phone service provider SMART Link recently visited Apostleship of the Sea (AOS) Stella Maris Center along UN Avenue in Manila to turn over pillows and blankets for the use of its residents.

Fr. Paulo Prigol, CS, director of AOS Manila, the apostolate that manages the dormitory, received the items on behalf of more than 60 seafarers under their wing.

SMART Link Sales Manager Jonathan Huertas also talked with the dormitory's residents about SMART Link satellite phone service. He spoke about the benefits of having affordable and accessible communication solution on board. The seafarers also learned how they can request a free satellite phone for their vessels through SMART Link's fleet program.

SMART Link is constantly establishing ties with organizations that, like AOS Manila, champion the seafarers' welfare. It is SMART Link's objective to improve the seafarers' working environment and quality of life at sea through an affordable and reliable communication tool that they can easily use to connect with their loved ones.
